HANDICAPPING THE HORSE

To those who take a general rather than a specialized interest in racing—and even to the average bettor, for that matter—handicap weights are more or less mysterious figures. The basic reason for their existence is that the racing public would rather see a close and thrilling finish than a race in which the best horse wins. Under ideal conditions one should be able to combine both aims in the same race. But since conditions are not always ideal in this Vale of Tears, the emphasis is on close contests which will decoy the dollars through the mutuel machines.

Handicapping is a relatively modern invention. For 150 years after the first Racing Calendars were published (1719) most races were at level weights. In 1873, however, Admiral Rous, who is recognised as the first handicapper, instituted in England the weight-for-age scale which, with modifications, is still in use all over the world. Under this scale horses are assigned weight according to age, the month of the year and the distance of the race. For example a two-year-old in July will get 24 pounds less weight than a three-year-old and 32 less than a four-year-old for a six furlong race. But in October the more seasoned two-year-old will get only 18 pounds for the same distance from the three-year-old and 22 from the four-year-old.

The scale is fine as far as it goes, but is still not adequate to guarantee close contests. For this purpose two systems have been adopted. One is to have an official handicapper assign different weights to individual horses based partly on the scale and partly on their past performances, giving the higher weights to the best horses and the lower weights to the poorer horses. This is the system adopted for evening the winning chances of the better class of horses, those which compete in handicap and allowance races.

Although the official handicappers can be expected to be thoroughly familiar with the past performances of the better race horses, they obviously cannot extend this knowledge to all the horses racing in North America which number over 25,000. For the poorer horses close contests are secured through claiming races which constitute about 65% of all races run. All horses in a claiming race are, in effect, offered for sale at the price at which they are entered—$1,000 to $15,000 being about the usual range. (Any owner of horses participating in the current meeting may deposit the claiming price for a given horse before the race and thus buy the horse.) In this way horses are entered in claiming races at approximately their true value. When all entries run for the same or nearly the same price, they are thus apt to be of approximately the same racing ability and to finish close together. In effect the claiming race recognises the fact that owners and trainers know more about the ability of their own horses than anyone else and makes them do their own handicapping, thus relieving the official track handicapper of what would be, in practice, an impossible task.

Even so the handicapper necessarily comes under a heavy barrage of criticism. Weight will stop a freight train and any horse's chances of winning are completely controlled by the amount of weight he has to carry. The handicappers at American racetracks are men of the very highest type and ability. Nevertheless they are subjected to a host of pressures. Some feel that this burden should be redistributed, that there should be a board of three whose figures should be arrived at independently and then averaged. Others feel that there should be a minimum spread between the top and bottom weight carried; or that there should be a ceiling on weight since handicapping is to produce close contests, not to find out how much weight is beyond the powers of a champion. The latter two suggestions are countered by those who say that any such restrictions are not horse racing and are probably motivated by the competition between tracks to attract headline horses.

Whatever one thinks there is no doubt that handicapping is here to stay. Since we have to live with it we might as well learn what it is all about.

LETTERS . . . . .

Dear Sir:

Thank you for your discussion on field and show hunters, page 13, Chronicle, 6-7-57. (The Hunter Trial or Who Killed The Field Hunter? by Roger Allbee)

I would also suggest that a whip cracked sharply near the average group of entries and winners could help sort the men from the boys among working hunters.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK

C. T. Chenery's Home-bred Willamette Defeats Bayou In Coaching Club American Oaks

Raleigh Burroughs

On Saturday, June 22, sex played an important part in racing on Eastern courses and best of all, it was the female sex, which is deemed the most interesting of any by a large segment of the life on this planet.

Delaware Park held the New Castle, Belmont staged the Coaching Club American Oaks and Monmouth put on the Regret Handicap. The CCAO is for three-year-olds exclusively; the other two are not particular about the ladies' ages so long as they are over two.

Arlington Park was slightly out of step with the "Ladies' Day" trend, as males were allowed in the feature at the track near Chicago. Just the same, the spirit of the occasion was maintained as Arlington's feature was named for Myrtlewood, one of the fleetest fillies ever to flash over the furlongs.

Though the three tracks within easy shipping distance of one another programmed filly-and-mare specials, there was plenty of lady Thoroughbreds to go around. The diverse distances of the events helped spread the talent.

The Regret, at six furlongs, drew 12. The New Castle, with a mile and a sixteenth to run, brought out 13 and nine three-year-old fillies contested for the mile - and - three-eighths Coaching Club.

Belmont Park

Belmont's filly derby (the Coaching Club American Oaks) is considered by many the most searching test to which three-year-old females are put in this country.

The 11-furlong grind starts up the Widener Course, the runners veer right when they hit the main track and follow that king-size oval to the judges' stand.

It takes a good one to win it.

This season's running brought a surprise ending, which means that the heavily-favored Bayou was licked.

The winner, with a $49.30 mutuel was C. T. Chenery's Willamette. The Willamette is a river in Oregon (with the accent on the "lam") that abounds in salmon and steelhead, and where I hope to go some day with plenty of backing on my fly reel.

Bayou's sister, Levee, won the Coaching Club last year, and Bayou, herself, had been clicking off scores so impressively that the New York crowd bet her down to 13 to 20.

She didn't miss by much.

Pillow Talk, second to Bayou in the Delaware Oaks a week earlier, set the early pace, with Jota Jota and Willamette following.

Bending for home Willamette was cutting down Pillow Talk's lead and caught her in the straight. Bayou surged up also and for a moment held first place, but Willamette was not to be denied. Johnny Choquette shoved her head in front at the eighth pole and had her three-quarters of a length to the good at the wire. Woodlawn was third, Here And There fourth.

Mr. Chenery, the owner and breeder of the daughter of Doswell-Sister Union, by *Blenheim II, received $48,800 for the filly's work. This makes $54,825 Willamette has earned in 1957. She has 2 wins, a second and a third in 11 starts. Last season she brought in $11,115 with 3 victories, 1 second and 3 thirds.

J. H. "Casey" Hayes trains her.

Edward Seinfeld's Decimal whipped seven smart sprinters to take the Toboggan at Belmont on June 17. He led all the way in the six-furlong dash down the Widener Course and collected $15,200 for his owner.

Jovial Jove, the public choice in the race, finished second, a length back of the winner and a half in front of Gay Warrior. Dark Peter was fourth.

The winner was the second choice, paying an even $8.00.

Decimal (Slide Rule - Granheart, by Granville) was making his seventh start of the year and registering his third victory. He had been second once and third a single time.

Last season, he won 6 races (out of 18) and $48,215.

H. Jerkens trains Decimal and W. Lester had the mount in the Toboggan.

The bay horse, now five, was bred by Meadowview Farms, Inc.

With his best races this season in sprints, Edward Seinfeld's Admiral Vee didn't attract much attention from the customers when he went out for the nine-furlong Edgemere Handicap on June 19.

Those who looked back far enough, though, saw that the horse had won at Belmont at precisely the same distance last fall. Those who looked and bet collected $28.60 for every $2 risked.

In with 115 pounds, Admiral Vee cut out the pace, relinquished the lead to Kingmaker, for a matter of seconds, then went to the front and stood off the closing rush of Third Brother, the favorite. The winning margin was three-quarters of a length.

Kingmaker held on for third and Riley was fourth.

The Edgemere was the medium of Admiral Vee's third 1957 win. He has been second once and third 3 times. With the $19,300 from the Edgemere he has season's earnings of $33,500.

H. A. Jerkens, who is a "trainer to watch", conditions Admiral Vee. Lester rode this one, too.

By War Admiral-Yankee Flirt, by *Blenheim II, Admiral Vee was bred by the Estate of Samuel D. Riddle.

Delaware Park

Delaware Park is right in the middle of its Distaff Big Three. The Oaks, on June 15, was won by Bayou, and the New Castle, June 22, was taken by Calumet Farm's Princess Turia. The last spike on the Stanton triple tiara, the Delaware Handicap, will be contested for on June 29, and the owner of the winner will have more money than a successful TV quiz contestant.

Princess Turia, with her stablemate

DELAWARE STEEPLECHASING

The Scribe

Monday, 1 1/2 mi. over hurdles - Almost from the start Sanford Farms' Ideal View took command of his field of 8. The only serious challenge came from Fair Shot who pushed him all the way. Par Amour (having been left at the start) ran gamely, closed a big gap to finish 3rd pulling up somewhat lame. Greek Brother knocked over a beacon rounding the clubhouse turn but went right on running evenly to finish 4th. Dromond was disappointing.

Tuesday, 2 mi. over brush - After having been away 2 years, Mrs. Lewis C. Ledyard's Actinic gave a splendid performance and was responsible for the very good time of 3:35 3/5 that set a new track record. He was not quite ready, however, to withstand the pressure of *Hurst Park who moved up to him after the 10th and went on to win by 2 lengths. Hill Tie managed 3rd place.

Jockeys Fined

James Murphy on Carthage lost his whip as he was getting ready to make his move. Just ahead of him was Democles, the other half of his entry, with Kenny Field doing his best to hold together a limber horse that had given up after making a bad fence. Realizing in that instant that he still had a chance to be in the money he called to Field as he went by to give him his whip. Jockey Field knowing full well that he could get the best out of his horse by holding him together with a strong hand ride handed over his stick to Murphy who went on to be 4th. What seemed to be quick thinking on the part of these boys, acting as they thought for the best interest of racing was viewed dimly by the stewards on reviewing the film the following day. A rule against passing equipment had been broken and must be punished; but surely it is part of the steward's job to weigh, judge and interpret these rulings (otherwise all that would be needed is a rule book) allowing as it were the punishment to fit the crime. Both boys received a maximum fine of $200 each. As neither boy had ever been fined before it seemed hard when rides are both few and precarious.

Wednesday, 1 3/4 mi. over hurdles - All but 2 or 3 horses made a run for it. But it was Galatian's long, sweeping move that counted. Behind him, Mycroft was the most persistent coming on again strongly at the finish to be a closing 2nd. Although *Evian went rusing to the lead after about a mile he could not hold it and finished an indifferent 3rd. The 4th and 5th horses, namely, General Mack and King's Rule both pulled up lame, the latter seriously so. Jubilee Day who was on the lead end early, finished last with rider's feet out of the irons.

Thursday, 1 1/2 mi. over hurdles - When Willow Brook went to the front of this field of 3-yr-old maidens, it seemed impossible that he could have stayed there. He jumped so badly, landing flat footed over every fence. Easy Sun was close for a while, but soon dropped out of it and the favored Helvellyn pursued the winner until the stretch drive when M. Hoey forced *Tour d'Argent II into the 2nd position.

The Spring Maiden 'Chase

Friday, The Spring Maiden Steeplechase - But for the fact that this race is one of a series (the other this year to be run at Saratoga), it undoubtedly would have been called off - and better so. For it was the spark that set off the great controversy of whether or not to continue with jumping races at Delaware. This is not new. Those talking against it say there are not enough horses or interest to keep the sport going. If they are using this race as an example - they are wrong - for it is the race, in this case, that is at fault. Although in past years it has provided good racing and worthy winners - the race itself is a poorly written one. It is a stake, the nominations for which close in March, when trainers are not sure of what they have - then accidents and unsoundness take their toll.

There were but 4 starters representing 3 interests. After two false starts with Independence hanging back, they were off with Affable rusing wildly to the front at the clubhouse turn. A lesser rider than A. P. Smithwick could not have held him in the turn at all and as it was, the added strain on the left stirrup caused the webbing to give way. But Paddy kept riding and stayed in front for more than a turn with but one iron. Meanwhile, *Ruby Brick was in close pursuit until he fell heavily at the 4th. This left Independence to challenge Affable who after a bad landing at the 7th fence gave way to this undistinguished brother to Bold Ruler. Now, Rebel Coat poking along in the back began to come to life under the smooth and capable ride of "Scotty" Riles. He came up to Independence at the last jump and under a masterful ride went on to win by 3/4 length.

The Chronicle

SPEED AND STAMINA IN THE BELMONT

A. S. Hewitt

This contribution is generated from an overflowing exuberance of enthusiasm after seeing the running of the Belmont Stakes of 1957.

For turf devotees the spectacle was unsurpassed: clear weather, fast track, a small field at level weights contesting a historic stakes over the true classic distance of 12 furlongs, bringing together a first class speed horse (Bold Ruler) and a fine colt with stamina, (*Gallant Man).

For students of breeding, too, the race posed a problem as old as racing itself: Under what circumstances will a natural front running speed horse beat a colt of demonstrated capacity at a mile and a quarter with probable reserves of stamina for the extra quarter mile?

The two colts, Bold Ruler, the front running speed horse, and *Gallant Man, the stout colt with stamina, are each so typical of his own pedigree that a comparison is well worth-while.

The Sires

Bold Ruler is sired by *Nasrullah a great stallion by any standards. His get nearly all have speed and the best of them, Never Say Die in England (winner of the Epsom Derby 1 1/2 miles and the St. Leger 1 3/4 miles by 12 lengths) and Nashua in the U. S. A. (Belmont Stakes 1 1/2 miles and Jockey Club Cup 2 miles) are up to any distance. *Nasrullah has the best earnings index for his get of any modern sire in England - 3.79 times the average for all sires.

*Gallant Man on the other hand is sired by Migoli, whose earnings index through 1955, with four crops of foals to race, was only 1.29 times the average. Migoli himself was a good colt, winner of the 7 furlong Dewhurst Stakes as a two-year-old in the autumn. Many of the best horses on the English turf such as Hyperion and Bayardo have won this race. As a three-year-old he was second in the Derby (*Nasrullah was third in his year) and third in the St. Leger. *Nasrullah failed altogether for want of stamina in the St. Leger. Both colts won the 1 1/4 mile Champion Stakes in the autumn as three-year-olds. This was probably *Nasrullah's best distance.

As a four-year-old Migoli won the 1 1/2 mile Arc de Triomphe at Longchamp, the most important weight for age race in the world. *Nasrullah did not run as a four-year-old.

The Sire Lines

Both *Nasrullah and Migoli trace in the female line to the speed marvel Mumtaz Mahal. *Nasrullah is a son of Mumtaz Begum, by *Blenheim II out of Mumtaz Mahal. Migoli is out of Mah Iran, by *Bahram out of Mah Mahal by Gainsborough out of Mumtaz Mahal. It is to be noted that *Blenheim II and *Bahram, both sons of Blandford, stayed well and produced stock of good stamina. Gainsborough won the triple crown and the war time Gold Cup.

The male lines, however, differ sharply. *Nasrullah is by the brilliant Nearco of the fast line of Pharos-Phalaris. Migoli is by Bois Roussel whose stock stayed, if anything, too well. The average distance of races won by his stock was 10.60 furlongs - perhaps a polite way of saying they lacked speed. Migoli's figure is 9.89 furlongs, somewhat greater than the virtually ideal figure of 8.80 which is *Nasrullah's. *Nasrullah has been the leading sire in both England and the U. S. Migoli in 1955 ranked 31st in England, with four crops of foals racing.

The problems in the successful use of these two sires are dramatically opposed. With *Nasrullah speed can be taken for granted, and his best stock have come from mares bringing in stout blood. Never Say Die was out of a mare by War Admiral (Belmont Stakes, etc.). Nashua was out of a mare by Johnstown (Belmont Stakes, etc.) next dam by Sardanapale (Grand Prix de Paris 1 7/8 miles in June as a 3-year-old, Musidora (English Oaks, etc.) was out of a mare by Gainsborough (Gold Cup, etc.). With Migoli, some speed should be added without too great a sacrifice of stamina.

The Female Lines

In the light of this let us now examine the dams of Bold Ruler and *Gallant Man.

Miss Disco, the dam of Bold Ruler, was a sound, tough mare of good racing class, but with clear limitations of stamina. As a two-year-old she had won twice when she ran third to First Flight in the Fashion Stakes in May. Her best effort at 3 was to win the 7 furlongs Test Stakes at Saratoga, in receipt of 10 lbs. At four she won the American Legion Handicap, also over 7 furlongs, at Saratoga. Though she ran at 5 and 6 also, she was never again able to win at a distance as far as 7 furlongs.

Miss Disco was a daughter of Discovery, the hardy handicap champion of his day. He was up to big weights and stood a gruelling campaign. But it must not be forgotten he was no match for Cavalcade at 1 1/4 miles. Discovery has been a fine sire, but he has not been a sire of classic horses. In any case, he did not succeed in imparting a distance capacity of more than 7 furlongs to Miss Disco.

Her dam Outdone was another minor stakes winner of sprinting character. Outdone's sire Pompey sired many fast horses, but most of his stock were pure sprinters. The next dam Sweep Out was another minor stakes winning sprinter, by Sweep On whose stock were not very successful and were in the main of limited

THE ENGLISH CLASSICS

SUCCESS OF HOME-BRED HORSES

Peter Towers-Clark

With the running of the Derby on June 5th and the Oaks two days later, four of the five English Classics have now been run and in marked contrast to last year, English and Irish-bred horses have come out well on top.

Highlight of the season has without doubt been the emergence of Crepello as a horse of world class through his victories in the Derby and the Two Thousand Guineas, his only starts to date this year. All through the winter Sir Victor Sassoon's son of Donstello II had been a 'talking point', for he certainly had a pedigree worthy of a Derby winner, as his dam, Crepuscule, by the French Derby and Grand Prix winner Mieuxce, had already produced as her first foal Honeylight, successful in the One Thousand Guineas. Crepuscule is, as far as I can discover, the only mare ever to foal English Classic winners with her first two produce, though the Boussac mare Corejada also did so in France.

Crepello had run three times at two, winning once, when he was seen to have been backward and unfurnished. On the strength of this he was promoted winter favourite for the Guineas and the Derby. That he would stay, there was no doubt, but the big question before the first Classic was whether he would have the great speed needed for a present-day Two Thousand Guineas winner. And that was a query that backers had to resolve purely on his juvenile performances, for while all his rivals had had the benefit of previous races, Crepello remained firmly 'on the side-lines'. It had been intended to run him for the seven furlongs Guineas Trial, or the Blue Riband Trial Stakes at Epsom (won by Mrs. E. N. Graham's Court Martial colt Tempest), but in both cases his trainer Noel Murless decided that the going was too firm.

Instead, on the Sunday morning, Crepello was given a rousing gallop over the full distance at Newmarket that sent all those who saw it into raptures of delight. Opposed by two useful four-year-olds, one of which was Sir Victor's own Kandy Sauce, considered at the time the best filly in the country, he finished well ahead of both and still full of running.

French Horses Well Beaten

In the Two Thousand Guineas he was opposed by the two French colts Tyrone, top-rated in the Free Handicap, Ralph B. Strassburger's Middle Park Stakes runner-up Wayne and his English conqueror Pipe of Peace, placed top colt of the English Free Handicap. On very firm going, despite being drawn on the outside of the whole field, Crepello came storming down the hill into the Dip to beat fast-finishing sprinter-bred Quorum by half-a-length, with Pipe of Peace a head away third, and the nearest of the French horses, Tyrone, four lengths further back.

In the weeks that intervened between the Guineas and the Derby, everybody was looking for one to 'beat the favourite', but nothing emerged. In fact, the feature of the pre-Derby preliminaries was the way in which the other leading contenders, one by one, 'fell by the wayside', especially the French horses, culminating in the scratching of the Strassburger colt Mourne, the ante-post second favourite, who split a pastern ten days before Epsom. Moreover Tyrone then paid a nice compliment to Crepello by winning the French Two Thousand Guineas easily. Curiously enough, the price of Crepello, who had not run in the intervening weeks, remained a generous one for it had generally been anticipated that he would start at odds-on, yet twenty-four hours before the race he was still at 2-1, though he hardened to 1 1/2-1 on the day.

Hard Going

Eight weeks of drought had left Epsom extremely hard as the twenty-two runners went to the post, in which Crepello again had the misfortune to be drawn No. 2, for horses with low numbers can often get cut off at the first turn. The Aga Khan's much fancied second favourite Prince Taj, whipped round at the start, to be left about ten lengths, and virtually put out of the race, but Piggott on Crepello had no difficulty to take up position about fifth. Coming down the hill there was a lot of bumping as the outsider Bois de Miel dropped back very rapidly, one of those to suffer badly being Pipe of Peace. As they rounded Tattenham Corner, Crepello was going easily in sixth place, having negotiated the hill without any difficulty, and when he took the lead soon afterwards the race was all over, and there is little doubt that he could have won by a far greater margin than 1 1/2 lengths had his rider wished. Second was Irish-trained Ballymoss at 33-1 who just held off the fast-finishing Pipe of Peace by a head, while Tempest, who stays better than most Court Martials, was fourth alongside the Ohrstrom owned Royaumeont, nearest of the French horses. Photographs later showed Royaumeont to have actually been fourth.

Crepello, whose main objective is now the St. Leger in an attempt to become the first Triple Crown winner since Bahram in 1935, definitely misses the Royal Ascot meeting, but may run in the King George VI & Queen Elizabeth Stakes in mid-July, though no decision has yet been made.

Fillies' Classics

The other two Classics went to fillies bred in Ireland and England though the One Thousand Guineas was won by the Aga Khan's Rose Royale II, trained by Alec Head in France and sired by the French stallion Prince Bio. Some years ago the Aga Khan and Prince Aly Khan decided on economic grounds that they would keep many of their horses in France, although their main studs are, of course, still located in Ireland, and it was there that Rose Royale II was reared. She is a daughter of the Nearco mare *Rose of Yeroda, who was one of the forty-one mares sold last year to Rex Ellsworth; her grandam *Hastra is also in the United States.

Rose Royale II runs in the green and chocolate colors of the Aga Khan, but is actually owned jointly by him and his son, and won by one length from Aly Khan's own filly Sensualita, a daughter of Polynesia and Peace of Mind whom he had bought at Saratoga as a yearling for $11,000 - After the race, Aly said it was the only time in his life that he had hoped that a horse carrying his colors would not win, for his father, who was very ill, desperately wanted to gain the One Thousand Guineas as it was the only Classic that he had not previously won.

Queen Wins Oaks

Fourth to Rose Royale II in the Guineas had been the Queen's filly Carrozza, who had beaten her previously in the valuable Princess Elizabeth Stake

TEXAS RACING BILL

A movement to initiate a state-wide referendum to legalize pari-mutuel betting specifies that such legislation, if enacted, would channel the revenue to county fairs, agriculture, the livestock industries, 4-H and F.F.A. clubs, Old Age Pensions, school teachers' retirement, veterans' bonuses, and crippled children's hospitals.

BELMONT SALE OF HORSES

IN TRAINING

The first day of the sale of horses in training conducted by the Fasig-Tipton Company at Belmont Park, June 10th and 11th was highly satisfactory, 37 head bringing an average of $8,035. The ten head in the Brookmeade consignment averaged $8,690 while 14 head from the Murcain-Byars Stable averaged $11,392 of which six were acquired by "Yorkie" McLeod, trainer for the stable, acting for an undisclosed principal. Topping the sale was Jean's Joe, a 5-year-old stakes winning son of *Nasrullah-Pocket Edition, by Roman, acquired for $25,200 by George Covert of Tracy, California. Prices were still good the second day considering the quality of the offering - 42 head averaging $2,585. The two top prices were paid by buyers from San Juan, Puerto Rico. Establo Lares paid $16,500 for the 5-year-old gelding, Door Prize, consigned by Lazy F Ranch to top this session.

EX-POLO PLAYING TRAINER

Former polo star, Del Carroll, is the trainer of Better Bee (Triplecate-S. Bee, by Haste), surprise winner of the recent Chicagoan Stakes at Washington Park. Better Bee is the first stakes winner produced by his dam and the first stakes winner owned by William S. Miller, member of the Illinois Racing Board.

BOWED TENDON TREATMENT

Dr. D. L. Proctor of Fair Trial Farm, Lexington, Kentucky, has announced a new method of treating bowed tendons. In the past, the procedure has been to try to shrink the swollen tendon back to normal size so that it can operate properly in its sheath. Dr. Proctor's technique is to enlarge the sheath so that the enlarged tendon can work within a larger space. About ten days after surgery, when stitches and bandages are removed, the horse can resume regulated work.

Every sire of Nydrie's Saratoga yearlings with produce to race has sent to the races performers of the highest calibre. There is no exception. In fact every one has sent out race horses that were either champions or classic winners or leading money winners of their division for the year. For years Nydrie has offered only the best at Saratoga . . . we believe these are the best of our best offerings at the Spa.

MEREWORTH FILLIES

Most striking of the three yearling fillies to be sold by Mrs. F. Warrington Giller's Mereworth Farm, Lexington, is a beautiful daughter of Bimelech-Butterweed, half sister to Caltha and Master Fiddle. This is Butterweed's second foal.

Also a second foal is the Mereworth miss by Coalton-Linger, half sister to Landlocked, Landmark and Basis. Linger's first offspring, Lavish, has already won three races this season.

A five-eighths sister, by Johns Joy, to the $102,520 earner Bullish is the third Mereworth filly. F.T.P.

RIVERSIDE YEARLINGS

M. K. Snider's Riverside Farm, Lexington, has consigned to the Saratoga Yearling Sales colts by Piet and *Windy City II; and fillies by Bolero, Jet Pilot and *Rico Monte. F. T. P.

ROBINSON'S YEARLINGS

STONER CREEK HAS MORE

KEENELAND YEARLINGS

Although most consignors to the Breeders Sales Company's Summer Yearling Sales at Keeneland have had the number of their yearlings considerably curtailed as compared with former years, Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz' Stoner Creek Stud shows an increase from 11 to 20. This is partly because the horses on the Hertz' Amarillo Ranch in California have recently been transferred to Stoner Creek near Lexington, Kentucky. Even more important, however, has been the quality of the yearlings themselves.

LESLIE B. COMBS' COLTS

Leslie B. Combs II, whose father, Leslie Combs II, operates Spendthrift Farm, Lexington, has consigned to the Keeneland Summer Sales two yearling colts apiece by *Ardan and Jet Pilot; sons of Battlefield, Double Jay, Errard, Great Circle, Mr. Busher and Mr. Trouble; and fillies by *Alibhai, *Daumier and Polynesian.

The sons of *Ardan include a half brother to the stakes-placed Prize Ring, from Roman's family; and a colt out of Iron Curtain, half sister to the 1948 juvenile champion Blue Peter. The latter's full sister War Shaft foaled one of the Jet Pilot colts. The other son of Jet Pilot is a half brother to the stakes-placed current two-year-old Rellim S. W., out of a daughter of the brilliant Say Blue.

Leslie B. Combs' other colts include a son of Errard from the Bay State Kindergarten Stakes captor Faneuil Miss, Fisherman's half sister; a Mr. Trouble colt from Pellicle's family; a half brother, by Double Jay, to the stakes-placed Reigh Belle and Count Lahey; a son of Battlefield out of the National Stallion Stakes second Set Aside, Islander's half sister; a colt by Mr. Busher from the St. Hugh's Stakes heroine *Sky Blue II, half sister to four English stakes horses; and a son of Great Circle out of a daughter of the top-class race mare Price Level. ### NANCE'S LAD RETIRED

The 5-year-old stallion, Nance's Lad, (Slide Rule-Nance's Ace, by Case Ace) one of the mainstays of the handicap division has been retired because of a broken bone in his left forefoot. The horse is owned jointly by C. J. Caithness and Hilton A. (Rabbit) Dabson who also trains him. Dabson maintains the Everglades Farm near Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. The horse will stand at stud either there or at an undisclosed farm in New Jersey.

MORVEN YEARLING COLTS

The two yearling colts likely to arouse the most attention from the group consigned to the Fasig-Tipton Company's Saratoga Sales by Whitney Stone's Morven Stud, Charlottesville, Va., are a bay by *Princequillo out of By Sea (Pompey-Flight by Stimulus) and a chestnut by Citation out of Seaton Pippin (Johnstown-One Hour by *Snob II). The By Sea colt is a half-brother to the stakes winner Getthere Jack, who came home first in the Great American, Tremont, Gulfstream Park Juvenile Stakes, etc. The chestnut is a half-brother to Trying, winner of the Astoria Stakes. One Hour is one of the great broodmares of modern times, winner of the Astoria Stakes and the Adirondack and Beldame Handicaps. She herself produced five stakes winners including Hoop Jr. and the producer, Morning, the dam of three stakes winners.

HIGH HOPE YEARLINGS

Heading the consignment of Mrs. Marie A. Moore's High Hope Farm, The Plains, Va. is a chestnut colt by *Royal Serenade out of the immortal mare Gallorette (*Challenger II) named in Delaware Park's Poll as the greatest race mare of all time. She is also the dam of the stakes winner Mlle. Lorette (Lovely Night), who won The Gallorette at Pimlico in track record time. This is the first of the produce of Gallorette which has ever been sold. Also in the consignment is a bay colt by General Staff out of Chessel (*Sir Gallahad III), the dam of four winners.

STAR SALOME BRED TO CORMAC

Dr. Joseph M. Rogers of Hamilton, Va., writes that he has bred his mare Star Salome (Star Beacon-Herodine by *Dear Herod), one of the best mares racing over timber in recent years, to the great timber horse Cormac, belonging to Eugene Weymouth and currently standing at the farm of Fred Pinch, Malvern, Penna.

PENNSYLVANIA

A. W. BERRY FILLIES

A. W. Berry of Wayne, Pa. is consigning to the Fasig-Tipton Company's Saratoga Yearling Sales a bay filly by *Shannon II out of Franilla (Menow), a winner and a one hundred per cent producer of three winners. She is out of a sister to Mate. The other filly is a chestnut by Your Host out of Myty Phar (*Pharamond II), a winner and the dam of the winner Port East by *Easton.

HICKORY HILL COLTS

Two colts are being consigned by Bertram N. Linder's Hickory Hill Farm of Dalton, Pa. to the Fasig-Tipton Company's Yearling Sales at Saratoga. One is a brown by Double Jay out of Camp Sortie, winner of eight races, who has also placed in stakes and is a half-sister to the stakes winner Camp Verde. Another brown is by Brookfield out of Imahoney by *Heliopolis. The mare is a winner and half-sister to the stakes winner Big Story. Both her starters to date have won.

ROLLING PLAINS ONE-TWO-THREE

Mrs. Joseph A. Walker's Rolling Plains Farm, Unionville, Pa., swept the first three places in the Thoroughbred yearling class at the recent Devon Horse Show. First was a chestnut colt by Big Game out of Appledore; second, a bay filly by Tom Fool out of High Stepper; and third, a brown colt by Citation out of Rytina.

CALIFORNIA

COOL-OUT RINGS

At the Conejo Ranch of Ed Janns, Jr. and Dr. Jack L. Robbins in Southern California, a horse coming back from the track to be let down is put into a sanded circular ring with a board fence too high for him to see over. It doesn't take him too long to have a good gallop around the ring and to settle down.

IRON LIEGE'S DAM

Iron Maiden, the dam of Iron Liege, was considered to be so poor a broodmare prospect after producing her first foal that she was returned to the races. When she was given a second chance in the stud, she produced Iron Reward (dam of Swaps) and later Iron Liege, winner of the Kentucky Derby.

The Chronicle

HIDDEN RESERVE

Writing in the "Horsemen's Journal" and discussing the best method for protecting the seller in yearling auction sales, Grant Dorland says: "Why not use the hidden reserve, but make no announcement until the hammer falls? Then simply say 'Sold' or 'Not Sold'. If the buyer is interested enough in the offering to go higher, he can work it out privately with the seller. But he will not have the inestimable advantage of knowing the seller's low price before the bidding ends. Coupled with this should be a stringent ban on bye-bidding with the penalty for repetition being ejection from the sale."

STALLION FEES AS INCOME

Where stallions stand on a live foal basis, the question has arisen as to whether the amounts received in payment for these fees should be reported as income in the year when they have been actually received (i.e. the year the mare was served), or whether they should be reported the following year when the contract has actually been completed. A recent Tax Court decision holds that the fee should be reported in the year which they have been received.

SISTER TO NASHUA

Humphrey Finney, president of the Fasig-Tipton Company, informs us that Stavros Niarchos has claimed the name "Stavroula" for his yearling sister to Nashua.

KEENELAND SELECTED YEARLINGS

After the pedigree pundits and the veterinarians finished going over the yearlings submitted for the Summer Sales of the Breeders' Sales Company at Keeneland, only about 240 passed all tests, the most select group to be offered in the 14 year history of the company.

Wiles of the Fox

C. W. Webber

There was a certain briary old field of great extent, near the middle of which we could, on any morning of the year, start a gray fox. After a chase of an hour or so, just enough to blow the dogs and horses well, we invariably lost the fox at the same spot, the fence-corner of a large plantation, which opened into a heavy forest on one side of this old field. The frequency and certainty of this event became the standing joke of the country. Fox-hunters from other neighborhoods would bring their pack for miles, to have a run out of this mysterious fox, in the hope of clearing up the mystery. But no. They were all baffled alike. We often examined the ground critically, to find out, if possible, the mode of escape, but could discover nothing that in any way accounted for it, or suggested any theory in regard to it. That it did not fly was very sure; that it must escape along the fence in some way was equally so. My first idea was, that the animal, as is very common, had climbed upon the top rail of the fence, and walked along it to such a distance, before leaping off, that the dogs were entirely thrown out. I accordingly followed the fence with the whole pack about me, clear round the plantation, but without striking the trail again, or making any discovery.

The affair now became quite serious. The reputation of our hounds was suffering; and, besides, I found they were really losing confidence in themselves, and would not run with half the staunch eagerness which had before characterized them. The joke of being regularly baffled had been so often repeated that they now came to consider it a settled thing that they were never to take another fox again, and were disposed to give up in despair. Some of the neighbors had grown superstitious about it, and vowed that this must be a were fox, who could make himself invisible when he pleased.

At last I determined to watch at the fence-corner, and see what became of the fox. Within about the usual time I heard him heading towards the mysterious corner, as the voices of the pack clearly indicated. I almost held my breath in my concealment, while I watched for the appearance of this extraordinary creature. In a little while the fox made his appearance, coming on at quite a leisurely pace, a little in advance of the pack. When he reached the corner, he climbed in a most unhurried and deliberate way to the top rail of the fence, and then walked along it, balancing himself as carefully as a rope-dancer. He proceeded down the side of the fence next to the forest in which I was concealed.

I followed cautiously, so as to keep him in view. Before he had thus proceeded more than two hundred yards, the hounds came up to the corner, and he very deliberately paused and looked back for a moment, then he hurried along the fence some paces farther, and when he came opposite a dead but leaning tree which stood inside the fence, some twelve or sixteen feet distant, he stooped, made a high and long bound to a knot upon the side of its trunk, up which he ran, entered a hollow in the top where it had been broken off, nearly thirty feet from the ground, in some storm. I respected the astuteness of the trick too much to betray its author, since I was not personally satisfied; and he continued for a long time, while I kept his secret, to be the wonder and the topic of neighboring fox-hunters. The tree stood at such a distance from the fence that no one of us who had examined the ground ever dreamed of the possibility that the fox would leap to it; it seemed a physical impossibility, but practice and the convenient knot had enabled cunning Reynard to overcome it with assured ease.

Tewksbury Foot Bassets Puppy Show

The Tewksbury Foot Bassets' 1957 entry was most ably judged by Mrs. L. Walton of Mt. Holley, New Jersey and Morgan Wing, Jr., Master of the Sandanona Beagles. The show was held Sunday May 25 at 4:00 p.m. in a very attractive setting at Mrs. Hovey C. Clark's Tewksbury Farm near Pottersville, N. J. The local Volunteer Fire Dept. was on hand to provide rides for the children and refreshments were served to all friends of the hunt especially the many kind people who worked so hard to bring along this 1957 entry. The 6 1/2 couples to be put on this year have been culled from some thirty puppies of four litters. Mrs. Walton, owner of the nationally known Lyn-mar Kennels, staged a very expert exhibition of her Champion lemon and white basset Lyn-Mar Top Brass shown with one of his equally handsome lemon and white puppies.

The judges selected T. F. B. Mailman '57, Elmer '54 ex Mystic '51 as the best dog hound and his sister Mermaid as the best bitch. Mailman is a perfectly formed hound but a little shy and so Mermaid a very gay and equally nicely made Belvoir tan bitch was placed over him as the best puppy. The open classes for Entered Dog hounds and Entered Bitches were adequately filled and gave us a chance to compare notes with other basset owners in the vicinity. T.F.B. Elmer '54 by Ch. Lyn-Mar Clown ex Grim's Unity was placed best in show.

We have constructed new yards at the kennels and made other improvements.

There are at present 15 couples of hounds including the 6 1/2 1957 entry. These were hunted a bit on cottontail rabbits in March and April. We will begin road work in July and are looking forward to the early morning hunting when we will start the puppies on hare and jack rabbits the middle of August weather permitting.

Treweryn Foot Pt.-to-Pt.

The 18th running of the Treweryn Beagles Handicap Foot Point-to-Point was run Sunday 14 April. Although the weather was clear, a cold, stiff wind discomfited the entries as they waited their turns to start. Bun Sharp, Jimmy Lamb and Orville Bullitt capably handled the handicapping horse - down to a science now after so many years.

The course of about 4 miles was over an interesting line of country with four flags, the first of which was in Dick Atkinson's; the second in E. B. Smith's southwest of Wetherill's; the third in Van Alen's cornfield; and the last on top of Fairy Hill. The Start and Finish were at the Radnor Hunt judges' stand. Challenge trophies were given in the men's and ladies' races for those with the fastest time and the first to finish.

In the men's race Ronnie Houghton was up to his usual standard and won the fastest time for the third year in a row to retire the trophy. Ronnie has been scratch man for several years now, and clearly was the odds-on favorite. Henry L. Collins, 3rd, ran a heady race to be first across the finish line. Capt. Wm. S. Stokes, Jr., who retired the first trophy before the 2nd World War, showed that he is still in the first flight by coping 3rd across the finish line and 4th best time.

Miss Sydney Smith took all the honors in the ladies race, over a slightly shorter course, as she was first to finish and had the best time. There were no casualties although 2 or 3 in the men's race limped home, having lost their shoes in a deep swamp.

Loudoun Pony & Junior

If Mary Drury was watching the Loudoun Pony and Junior Show, as many like to believe she was, she must have been thrilled to see Billy Boyce's Smokey Joe, one of the grandest ponies of all time, take home the first of the four replicas of the exquisite Mary Drury Perpetual Memorial Trophy. The lovely little gray was guided expertly by Patsy Worrell, who had to ride with a mask to protect the recent plastic surgery done on her upper lip as the result of being bitten by another pony. This bothered neither Patsy nor Smokey, however, and they won not only the memorial trophy, but also the tricolor. The pair was followed by Reynolds Doyle on his Florian.

The only other championship awarded during the huge two-day show went to Shalbourne Pendragon, the breeding champion owned by Mrs. Hubert Phipps. Reserve was Dr. & Mrs. R. E. McConnell's Make Believe. Toni Brewer

Culver Riders Create Goodwill in Cuba

John H. Fritz

International goodwill was furthered this spring when a group of troopers from Culver Military Academy's Black Horse Troop polo and jumping teams travelled to Cuba to spend their spring vacation and to compete against Cuban riders in a series of polo and jumping meets. Richard Weyand, captain of Culver's polo team, and Walter Dunlap went to Havana as the guests of fellow teammate Eugenio Silva, whose father and uncle have long been top players and supporters of polo in Cuba. Ricardo Sarabasa, captain of the Culver jumping team, had as his guests Robert Goldenberg, Fred Cuthbert, and Rafael Miranda, whose home is in Ecuador.

The arrival of the Culver polo players was heralded in the Havana press as the beginning of a series of international polo matches, and they were presented one evening over television. They played three scheduled arena games and one outdoor scrimmage during their 10 day visit in Cuba. In the first game of the series the Culver troopers defeated the Vedado Tennis Club team 7-4, and later in the week they triumphed over the Trelles Polo Club 12-4. For the last game of the series the Cubans brought together the strongest arena polo team they could make up, and playing under the name of the Havana Country Club, they handed the Culver trio a 14-8 defeat after a well played and hard fought game. The three members of the Culver team mentioned above were joined in these matches by Tito de los Reyes, a Culver trooper whose home is in Havana.

The outdoor scrimmage was a new experience for the Culver players since outdoor polo has not been played at the Academy in recent years.

Arena polo is becoming increasingly popular in Cuba as in this country, and most young Cubans begin as arena players and then later move on to the outdoor game. There is a great need for trained instructors and trainers, for the Cuban army which once developed such individuals no longer supports the game. The Culver players found the Cuban ponies smaller than those generally used in this country and not as well trained in basic schooling.

Members of the Culver jumping team competed in two competitions against a team from the Biltmore Yacht and Country Club. They were mounted by Cuban friends including Jorge Batista, son of the president who has attended the Culver Summer Naval School for the past two years. One competition was run along the lines of the Prix des Nations event with each team entering four riders. To give the Culver riders, who were riding strange mounts, an even chance, the competition consisted of two rounds with mounts being exchanged between the teams after the first round. The Cuban team of Eduardo Bellran, Jorge Batista, Alberto Pierto, and Guillermo Aquilera, all young Cuban teenage riders, was the winner with 16 less faults for the two rounds.

In a second competition Culver riders were paired with members of the Biltmore team in a pair team event. Again each rider went two rounds with mounts being changed according to a system which tried to even up the mounts of all pairs as equally as possible. The winning pair were Ricardo Sarabasa of the Culver team and Guillermo Aquilera of Cuba. Runners-up were Fred Cuthbert of Culver and Eduardo Bellran of Cuba.

Riding the Cuban horses was a strange experience for the Culver riders accustomed to horses trained along the principles of the Italian school. Cuban horses are trained along German lines and jump with polls bent and very much on the bit. They required hand riding, always a difficult assignment on a strange mount, even for the expert.

The participation of the Culver riders in these events in Cuba created a great deal of interest in Havana, and the North Americans were warmly received wherever they went. As a result of the interest created by the Culver group this spring, Cadet Hector Lara of New York Military Academy's jumping team has invited some of his teammates to visit him in June to take part in similar jumping competitions with Cuban teams at that time. The Culver experience proved once more that the language of horsemen is international and that the horse is an excellent ambassador to bring peoples of various countries together.

Friday, June 28, 1957 WHIPPING THE BOTTLE

One of the most popular events at country Horse Sports and gymkhanas in the Poverty Bay district of New Zealand is the Whipping the Bottle competition, one of those few specialized competitions found occasionally in certain areas. Whereas most horsemen can enter most events at a horse show, the Whipping of the Bottle attracts only the expert - the expert with the stock-whip, and the expert equestrian.

The object of the competition is to knock over, with a stock-whip, in the fastest time, six beer bottles, placed twenty feet apart in a line on the grass. The length of the whip varies, but most whips have between a 6 ft. and a 7 ft. 6 in. thong.

The mounted competitor starts at a drum, placed 20 ft. before the first bottle, the stop-watch on him. Obviously if he can knock over the six bottles on his way down the line, he can gallop back, and thus reach the judge in a fast time. If however, he misses any on the way down, he may have a further try for the balance on his return.

The horse and rider here photographed, champions of the district, have on many occasions upended the six bottles on the way down, and returned in nine seconds.

Roy Lange and True Blue have also been an outstanding combination at most gymkhana events, and unusual was the day that the Points Prize did not come their way.

THREE DAY DRESSAGE

In connection with the Dressage Phase of Three Day Events, Col. C. E. G. Hope, Editor of "The Light Horse" (England), comments: "I would suggest that all tests should be carried out in the large arena, so that the horses can have more scope for galloping, which is after all one of the most important qualities required for this sport." Col. Hope's remarks are very much in line with the thinking of many people in this country who believe that the small rings commonly used for the Dressage Phase of our events are unsuitable for the type of dressage in which collected gaits have been expressly omitted by ruling of the F. E. I.

PONIES OF THE CAMARGUE

Maurice Moyal

The Camargue is that savage swamp-land which stretches across the delta of the Rhone River, in southeastern France. Here everything is amphibian, everywhere glitter in the sun the dead-still mirrors of countless freshwater marshes and saline lagoons overgrown with 9-foot-tall reeds and rushes. This district has the appearance of a lost world, particularly when, rounding a juniper-thicket one sees a herd of the ponies native to these parts which range at liberty through the swamps. Shaggy and wild in appearance, the animals look strikingly prehistoric - and very ugly to the rider used to the elegant Arab type.

Just picture for yourself a smallish nag, standing barely 14 hands high, and weighing some 800 pounds, almost too big for a pony and too small for an honest-to-goodness horse. Give him a biggest head. Add a thick-set, rough looking body. Stick haphazardly to his bulging belly four spindly legs with knotty knees. Throw in for full measure an unkempt mane and a bristly, whitish coat. The ugliest horse-flesh in the world? And, to make matters still worse, he smells like a wild animal! But don't be taken in by his sleepy and sloppy bearing when standing at ease. You mustn't overlook that deep-ribbed body, with ribs laid on with an inch or two of the hip-bone and with great width and depth through the lungs and heart; that short back and all the mighty muscle structure of those buttocks.

"POUPETTE" is something of a legend. Her nickname in French "Little Doll" is misleading. Standing 6 feet in her stocking feet, 22-year-old Miss Perlita Puget is "as athletic as they make 'em". She has inherited a 20,000 acre ranch in the Camargue, 5,000 head of cattle and 500 semi-wild ponies. (Coen Photo)

Asian origin, built for speed and rodeo work, not beef. With its black lustrous hair and lighter strip all along the back, that tough Bovine is the nearest semi-domesticated thing to the now well-nigh extinct wild aurochs. Let us watch our pony in action against some wily old bull which knows by heart all the tricks of the game. The pony then turns into a wonderful mount, displaying such cleverness, precision and initiative that his "gardian" - as spelt in the Camargue - needs hardly guide him. Instinctively the pony anticipates all the movements of the bull, adroitly dodging its charges. With all the grace and ease of a ballet-dancer, he spins within his own length, suddenly wheels about, performs hair-pin turns that would make a mule dizzy, stops abruptly, and starts again at a full gallop.

And don't forget that all this takes place over ditches and through juniper-thickets in which the pony's feet are likely to sink above the hocks into treacherous water-holes, concealed by tall rushes. Such rough work calls for a supple rider and a saddle with a raised pommel and a cantle even higher than the pommel, something like a stock saddle of the American cowboy. When the rider decides to call it a day, a brief order is enough direction for the pony to bring him exactly behind the adversary. Galloping at top speed, the cowboy brings his chestnutwood-staff, about eight feet six inches long, to bear at the base of the tail, knocking the bull down.

Close To Nature

Horses, riders and bulls live very close to nature. A "gardian" will know that a hurricane (mistral) impends when he sees all the bulls of his "manade" or herd draw close together, in a straight line, young steers and cows behind, bracing themselves and lowering their horns in the direction from which the fiery Mistral is to blow, lashing these flat stretches at 130 miles an hour for days on end.

I owe my life to the unerring instinct of Pescalune, a five-year-old Camargue pony. Once I helped a rancher-friend to brand his bullocks. On the return-ride, twilight caught me in the midst of a vast, unfamiliar swamp, strewn with low-lying sandy islets. I was afraid to pull out of the "gargatto", these treacherous quaking bogs, lest I might sink into some "trans-tairo", the shifting sands that can swallow a man and his mount in less time than it takes to describe it. I, therefore relied on my mount's instinct and faculty of seeing nearly as well at night as in broad daylight. I gave stout-hearted Pescalune "his head" and he started tackling the job with dogged perseverance and fortitude. At times he made such big detours that I was afraid he had lost his way. Perhaps he was guided by scent, perhaps by his phenomenal memory for a country he had traversed only once. Half-splashing and half-swimming, he at length got out of the swamps. I wonder whether any other horse could have done the trick.

Mode Of Life

The cleverness and surefootedness of the Camargues may well stem from their unique mode of life. Born and bred in freedom, never coming under a roof, day or night, winter or summer, they have been left to fend for themselves for eons in their savage home-marshland. Usually two stallions are run with forty mares. Toward the beginning of spring, to avoid the proud males savaging each other to death, the herd will be divided into two parts, which are put in separate pastures for two months. There is rarely a casualty if the mares are left undisturbed and in their natural environment.

Ponies of the Camargue are an almost unique instance of the survival in direct line of the wild primitive quaternary horse. (Marcel Coen Photo)

Foaled in the swamps, the Camargue lives and dies in the swamps. In summer-time, dogged by dense clouds of mosquitoes, he makes the most of the withered tufts of "enganes" and "saladelles", salt-plants with at once a bitter and aromatic taste, for the scorched grass is then all too scant. They may even suffer from thirst, when too far from the Rhone, for the fiery sun pumps dry all but the larger marshes. Our friends are the happiest in the autumn. As soon as the rice-crop has been harvested, they are left to graze the bits of grass growing on the verges of the ricefields. This happy time lasts only a few weeks and they are then obliged to look for submerged reed shoots. To get these, they must dip their heads up to their foreheads into the flooded swamps. On higher ground, after the frost has scorched the grass, the animals start growing a thick livery to protect them from the whiplash of the Mistral.

They are put to work only to escort the bulls from pasture to pasture; during the relatively short season when the particular brand of the herd is branded with a red-hot poker on every young bullock; and also during the "triales", when the best bulls are selected for the rodeos.

The Camargue has also preserved daring horsemanship displays and bull fights. Here a squad of "gardiens" is shown riding at top speed through the streets of Les Saintes-Maries-de-La-Mer, the one village in the Camargue. Tradition demands that any pedestrian who feels like it can try anything to stop them. (Coen Photo)

Origin

A few authors believe these ponies are the lineal descendants of the Ice-Age Solutre horse, the age-old seclusion of their savage home-marshland having kept the pristine prehistoric purity of the breed for thousands of years. Professor E. Bourdelle, France's foremost authority on the subject, is inclined to go even further. He believes that the Camargue is not the son of the Solutre, but his first cousin, being the lineal descendant of the wild primitive horse which was, throughout the Pleiocene and Pleistocene ages, the only horse to range over the arctic zone of the primitive continent. This wild quaternary horse had a very large head, rectilinear in outline, with a rather smallish height. The present day Prjewalski horse exactly conforms to this type. That Middle-asian breed, named "Taka" by the Mongols and "Kertag" by the Khirgizes, still roams at liberty in the wilderness of Dzungaria and the Altai Mountains, thus forming the one really wild strain of horses still in existence.

When the continental glacier of the late Ice-Age began melting, the primitive quaternary horse must have undergone rapid changes, branching into three different breeds, namely: the steppe-stock, the desert-breed, and the forest-stock, each more adapted to the struggle for life in its new surroundings. According to Prof. Bourdelle, it is from one of such breeds, which had grown larger and concavilinear in outlines, that would stem both Solutre and Camargue. A meticulous compared measurement of bones has satisfied him that the Solutre had far larger bones, so that the Camargue, although of the same size, must be in reality far slimmer. Because the Camargue has the same metacarpus-measurements as the Prjewalski - a unique trait in a non-Asian stock - and leads a semi-wild life, some authors have ventured that the latter is the forebear of the former. But this theory bears no close scrutiny. Whereas the Camargue is the one horse in existence to have six, and sometimes even seven, lumbar vertebrae, the Asian has the usual five. It also presents several purely asinine traits, completely lacking in the Camargue, such as the mouse-grey coat, zebra-striped legs, and almost straight sternum; the sternum of all other horses describes a wide curve.

Training

From this wild ancestor, the Camargue inherited his irrepressible love of freedom: legends tell of stallions which preferred death to capture. He has also inherited that excitable, tricky temper, which set a British author exclaiming: "You would think he is a dullard to ride, but it is the nearest thing to mounting one of the hounds of hell a man can experience." He must be trained when a yearling, after that, it'd be too late. The untrained "rosso" must be lassoed and pushed into a circular four-barred corral. As soon as a yearling feels weight on his back, down goes his head and upgo hooves in a magnificent display of pyrotechnics. Then, to unsaddle the rider he will play leap-frog and bite his shoes - local "gardiens" wearing jodhpurs.

Napoleon sought to press our friends into the light cavalry. But the Camargues need the swamps, the sands, the hurricane-force wind, the hot-white sun, the star-studded nights and their freezing cold - and freedom. Locked up in the stables the recruits refused to eat and died by thousands in their homesickness for the wide open spaces, the mirages and the unique charm of their savage home-marshland.

BOOKS

RULES FOR COMBINED TRAINING, LONDON, PUBLISHED BY THE BRITISH HORSE SOCIETY, 1957.

The British Horse Society has for several years published a booklet by this name, which is revised annually. The 1957 revision incorporates a number of changes, which will be of particular interest to those organizing or participating in One-Day-Events, also known as One-Day Horse Trials. The term Combined Training applies particularly to an event consisting of dressage and stadium-jumping. Colloquially, however, it is often applied to One-, Two- and Three-Day Events.

The booklet sets forth the rules which in the British Commonwealth govern One-Day Horse Trials (Three-Day Events are of course governed by F. E. I. Rules). The main change has been the addition to the existing two classes, Open and Intermediate, of another class designed to attract newcomers to Combined Training, namely the "Preliminary Class". This class requires the execution of the most elementary dressage test; a slower speed in the Cross-Country phase; and no penalty zones, which means that disobedience and falls count along the entire course. In the Stadium-Jumping phase, the required speed is only 327 yds. per minute while the obstacles must not exceed 3' 9" in height or 9' for the water jump.

The other change refers to the new term "Minimum Time", in the Cross-Country phase. This new system of time scoring produces exactly the same results as the system in use in 1956 (Time Allowed and Maximum Bonus). In the Open and Intermediate Classes it is based on a speed of 492 yds. per min. which gave the "Time Allowed" in the pre-1956 system. The present Minimum Time is equal to 3/4 of the Time Allowed (speed of 656 yds per min.) and the Time Allowed is now twice the Minimum Time. The effect is that of streamlining the scoring and making it easier still for the spectator to follow events. The trend in respect to One-Day Events is therefore an increase in speed and slightly shorter recommended Cross-Country courses.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that in England, under the Protection of Animals Act, a Police Officer, acting on the advice of a registered Veterinary Surgeon, may order a severely injured horse to be destroyed WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF THE OWNER. This assumes that the owner cannot be located immediately.

SHOW STORIES

Millwood Hunt

The Millwood Hunt Horse Show, Framingham Centre, traditionally Massachusetts' largest hunter show run entirely by amateurs, exceeded all its previous records in both attendance and number of entries on June 8. This New England classic is held annually at Race-land, estate of the late John R. Macomber, nationally known sportsman. Race-land provides spacious grounds of unparalleled landscaping as a setting for the Challenge Cup for Hunt Teams with the Norfolk Hunt placing second. Anne White won the horsemanship champion award.

An innovation this year was the addition of a test with the hounds to determine the best working field hunter. After jumping a specified course the horses were galloped in a group behind the Millwood hounds led by Mrs. Henry S. Hall, Jr., Millwood's M. F. H. to prove the best mannered field hunter under approximate field conditions. Millwood's pack showed their exceptional good manners and training by remaining under perfect control during alternate gallops and halts. The S. Burt Wolbach Challenge Trophy was awarded to Scotch Plaid owned by Mina Albee. This trophy is a memorial to a former President of the Millwood Hunt, Dr. S. Burt Wolbach, who was a great admirer of performance.

A notable feature of the day was the Stadium jumping. The modified course was designed to test the agility and schooling of an obedient working hunter. The combination of fences and turns

The show was held at the Eglinton Hunt's property in the Northern suburbs of Toronto. Good weather was enjoyed on the Friday for the Junior classes which were excellent and well filled, especially the Pony Club class for the much coveted Princess Elizabeth Challenge Trophy and under saddle event stressing manners and suitability. This was won by Taddy Matthews, a member of the Eglinton Hunt Branch, riding Sarah Bladen's St. Thomas. Breeding classes were held Friday also and were light in entries except for the two and three-year-old events.

The day started off well for the Hunter-Jumper show on Saturday. The outside hunter course being put to use, but light rain in the late afternoon turned into a downpour necessitating the cancellation of the final hunter events. Broadview show which attracts the finest horses and riders of the area. Beginning at 9 o'clock two rings of adult and junior events continued throughout the day. An enlarged children's ring gave junior riders more than ample room to show their mounts to the best advantage, while the new outside senior course presented a most enjoyable and interesting challenge to participants.

Miss Eleanora R. Sears' Reno won the hunter championship, defeating her stablemate Sidonia, 9 1/2 to 8. The young hunter championship went to Bit Of Melody, owned by Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske, while Arropat, the entry of Judy Bentinck-Smith, was reserve. Meg Vincent's Copper Witch was the winner of the Margaret S. Jackson Trophy for the best child's hunter. Patty Lee Gray was awarded the Millwood Challenge Trophy given to the junior rider with the greatest number of points earned at the Millwood and Dedham shows combined. The Millwood Hunt won its own presented many difficult problems for the horses and riders to solve. The test being one of judgement, skill, and boldness rather than emphasis on high jumping ability. Competition was keen and three jump-offs were necessary to decide the winner. Francis P. Sears Cog's Coronet was awarded the trophy.

Toronto

Jim Elder rode his father's horses Yankee Wonder and Huntsman to the jumper championship and reserve at the Toronto Horse show on June 1. Robert Elder, Joint Master of the Toronto and North York Hunt, has used Huntsman as one of his personal hunters for years and it was really only last year that son Jim put him in some performance events. Yankee Wonder is a brilliant young horse that Jim showed fairly extensively last year.

at this all-horsemanship show. 11 to 13 champ Jane Farquhar defeated her older fellow equestrienne from the Henry Warner stable and the senior reserve champ to be named "Best in Show". Reserve to Jane was little Terry Rudd, the 10 and under champion who last year was pinned novice champion here. Though riders competed for the grand championship award, the division tricolors were determined on a point basis. Young Pie Wickes did a good job in every class to finish behind Terry in the 10 and under group. Reserve in the intermediate division was Leelie Godshalk, a child who has really improved a lot over the past year. Senior reserve was Debbie Buchanan, a recent graduate of the intermediate division.

Julie Mannix showed much promise as an up and coming novice. Reserve to Julie in that division was Penny Greiner who just last week was pinned novice champion at the Valley Forge Junior Show.

"Buy When The Price Is Right"

The time to buy is when the price is right and now is the time to buy Thoroughbred Yearlings.

In the past ten years the economy of horse racing has soared - with one exception - the price of yearlings at auction.

Purse distribution, $49,291,024.00 in 1946 had jumped to $81,311,581.00 last season.

Racing opportunities have increased some 30 per cent from 23,980 races run in 1946 to 33,445 races last year.

Meanwhile, the average price paid for Thoroughbred Yearlings actually decreased! (and we can prove it.)

Today you literally get "more for your money" when you buy a Thoroughbred Yearling. Now is the time to buy and the place to buy is at the .....

Letters To The Editor

Wants Trainer

Dear Sir:

Will you please let me know the names of some trainers of brush and timber horses, either in the northern part of Virginia or Maryland.

My horse has run over hurdles this year and has also had a year of hunting. This is my first year of racing at the hunt meetings and I am enthusiastic about continuing.

Very truly yours,

Kenelm Dallam

Women's Olympics

Dear Sir:

Ever since reading - with deepest interest, I might add - your recent editorial on the subject of Equestrian Olympics for women, I have had every intention of writing to tell you how completely I agree with the idea. My family includes three daughters, every one of which exhibits a real and abiding devotion to the sport of riding; their burning ambition is to represent their country in the Equestrian Olympics. I am enough of a proud parent to believe that they might some day qualify, if only there were something for them to qualify for. In other words, I have an axe to grind. However, let's forget the axe. There are two other reasons, one perhaps idealistic, and the other completely practical, but both impersonal, why I am 100% for the Women's Olympics idea.

8 Girls To 1 Boy

Some six years ago my wife and I founded the Arapahoe Riding Club, where we have done what we can to provide for really interested youngsters an opportunity to become reasonably expert in the art of equitation. During our six years, we have seen at least two hundred kids start at the beginning, most to fall by the wayside, some to reach their peak at mediocrity, and not more than ten to become, we sincerely believe, age for age and mount for mount, the equals of any riders this side of the Atlantic. Your guess is absolutely correct - they are all girls. We have had boys, certainly, and a few of them have shown real promise. Every one of them, however, has eventually deserted, understandably, to the more popular and, to their schoolmates' way of thinking, more manly sports of football, baseball, and basketball. I know that our situation is not unique. I was at the Garden last November and watched all three of the hunter seat Medal classes. The exact figures I cannot recall, but the impression remains that it was the girls over boys about eight to one.

There are a great many fine young riders in this country, but by far the majority wear skirts - at least when out of uniform. These girls must love the sport to keep at it; at least a few must have ambitions of reaching the top. Do we ask them to remain content to ride a couple of hunters and a jumper or two at Devon, Harrisburg, New York, and Toronto, hoping against hope that they can somehow get the nod for the Prix team over the best of the men; do we suggest that they can always specialize in dressage because it happens to be a phase that interests few of their male contemporaries; or do we do what we can to establish a real goal toward which their hopes, their aspirations, and their ambitions can be aimed?

Girls Can Get The Money

My second reason follows the first, naturally and logically. When the Army abandoned equitation, the biggest single problem facing the United States in its efforts to field a representative International Team was that of money. As any member of USET can tell you, it's still a problem. Certainly it's true that to add a women's team to the present men's team would add considerably to the cost of training, maintenance, and transportation that makes up the major part of USET's quite considerable budget. I cannot, however, accept the idea that necessary funds would be more difficult to raise. Quite to the contrary, it is my sincere belief that the task of fund raising would be easier. It would be easier because of the very same facts that argue for a women's team in the first place.

Any show catalogue will show a preponderance of ladies among both riders and exhibitors - the former even when the professionals are included in the total. Most of the considerable wealth represented in all the shows throughout the country is at least somewhat influenced by the distaff side (an understatement if I ever made one). Give the girls a chance to ride, and I am convinced that they will jump at the chance to contribute, or to boost a contribution already made.

We here in Colorado are most excited about scheduling of the Wofford Cup come September right in our own backyard. Our two older daughters plan to enter. They are well mounted, they are both good riders, and they lack nothing in either stamina or courage. With a little bit of luck, they could do well. May I quote, however, from Paragraph 2, page 4, of the "Schedule of Conditions" for the event:

"From the participants in this Three Day Event, the USET hopes to find amateur male riders with horses which might justify an invitation to join a Three Day Training Center which the USET hopes to establish in 1958."

For a couple of young ladies, that takes something out of the fun of competition, doesn't it?

Yours most sincerely,
Gerald H. Phipps

Bishop Hollow Polo

Sunday, May 26th the Bishop Hollow Polo Club took the third straight when they defeated the Rosemont Polo Club by a score of 7 to 3 on the Bishop Hollow Polo field at Newtown Square, Pa.

Due to Bill Gill getting married Hervey Swann substituted for him in the visitors line-up, and with little more help could have reversed the score. Swann put on a marvelous exhibition against odds and tied for the scoring honors with Jack Ehmer and Geo. Flanagan.

Flanagan backing up Jack Ehmer throughout the game saved several goals. Ehmer played his best game this season and sparked the home team from the opening bell until the last whistle was sounded.

Before an enthusiastic crowd marked by good horsemanship, hard riding, and accurate stick work the Bishop Hollow Polo Club won their fourth straight game on June 9th when they toed the Wayne Polo Club by a score of 4 to 2, on the Bishop Hollow Polo Field at Newtown Square, Pa.

With the addition of Don Carberry, a newcomer in this area, the home team started off from the first chukker as though they were going to run roughshod over the visitors. But the two Jacks (Ehmer and Whiting) took fire and battled the Bishop Hollow team down to the final whistle in a struggle that left the spectators limp.

Even though Herv Swann was a leading scorer he was given a chase for the honors by Jack Ehmer.

Jack Whiting for his first game this season played very well especially on the defense.

SOUTH AFRICAN POLO PONIES

Col. J. Hume Dudgeon of Dublin who, with his daughter, Mrs. de Vere Hunt, recently judged the nine day Rand Horse Show at Johannesburg, South Africa, reports that the classes showing the highest quality were those for heavyweight and lightweight polo ponies in which there were very large entries. Polo is tremendously popular in South Africa, there being over 600 players in Johannesburg alone.

stamina, Miss Disco, on the score of both her own performance and pedigree was thus suspect as to her ability to produce a true classic colt.

Stoutness of Majideh Line

The contrast is striking in the case of *Gallant Man's dam Majideh. She was lightly raced at 2 and was only second once. At three, she won the Irish One Thousand Guineas (1 mile) and Irish Oaks (1 1/2 miles). Without doubt she was the best filly of her year. Her first foal was the very high class English Oaks winner Masaka. Majideh was a daughter of *Mahmoud an English Derby winner. However, his stock showed more speed than stamina, especially in Europe. Majideh was an exception.

Her dam Quarat Al Ain was one of the finest yearlings I ever saw. The Aga Khan paid 12,500 Guineas for her, about $13,000 in today's money. She proved well worth it, winning the Queen Mary Stakes at Ascot, perhaps the most important race for two-year-old fillies in the first half of the season. At three she won the valuable Coronation Stakes at Ascot (1 mile). However, this race is a tremendous test as the last half mile is run up hill. Quarat Al Ain was sired by Buchan (Ascot Gold Cup 2 1/2 miles, but disqualified). The next dam was Harpsichord, a high class filly that was raced only at 2. She was by Louvois, (beaten a head for the Derby 1 1/2 miles.)

In sum, this whole pedigree of *Gallant Man is a picture of stoutness with the sole possible exception of *Mahmoud whose stock had the respectable average winning distance of 8.13 furlongs in England.

To sum up, Bold Ruler is a colt sired by a great stallion of middle distance capacity (*Nasrullah) out of a sprinting mare with a thoroughly sprinting pedigree except for Discovery, whose stoutness she did not inherit. *Gallant Man is a colt by a sire who stayed 1 1/2 miles well and whose stock stayed well. His dam was a mare which won a classic at a mile and a half with a stout female line. The doubt in his pedigree was speed.

The Burning Question

The real question in the race was simple: could the stout colt *Gallant Man bring the fast front runner Bold Ruler to a drive? If he could, stoutness was bound to prevail.

Bold Ruler ran the first 6 furlongs in 1:10 2/5. At this point, *Gallant Man was about 12 lengths back. Since he beat Bold Ruler 12 lengths, *Gallant Man ran the second 6 furlongs 24 lengths better than Bold Ruler. Offhand, I cannot recall such a performance as this in nearly 40 years of racing.

The time 2:26 3/5 was extraordinary—a new American record. However, I am not bowled over by this fact. Harmonizing, a winner of only one previous race, won at 1 1/16 miles that same day in 1:42 1/5—nearly 3 seconds faster than normal for this class of colt at this distance. Inside Tract was second in the Belmont and must have run the distance in about 2:27 3/5. No one will argue that Inside Tract is a better colt than Citation or Count Fleet, joint previous holders of the record in 2:28 1/5.

Bold Ruler was probably good enough to have won 3 out of 5 Belmonts, many of which have been won by colts turning in worse times and worse last quarters than Bold Ruler. *Gallant Man, however, went a mile and a quarter, in 2:01 2/5, and THEN finished full of running to beat Bold Ruler 12 lengths.

That, ladies and gentlemen, was a sight to be long remembered!

at Epsom, and did so again in a thrilling finish for the Oaks. A furlong out the Aga Khan's filly had moved up and looked likely to win but then probably started to feel the hard ground and dropped back to finish third while a desperate struggle developed between Carrozza and the Irish filly Silken Glider who passed the post locked together. No one could say which had won, but on the whole opinion veered towards Silken Glider, and a great cheer rose from all over the course when the announcement came over the loud-speaker: "First No. 1" and the photograph showed that Carrozza had scored by about six inches.

Like Crepello, Carrozza is trained by Noel Murless and was ridden by mind the advice the late August Belmont gave to William Woodward, Sr. who was founding his stud 40 years ago: "Breed to stoutness. Then when you find a horse that has speed you MAY produce a great horse."

Mr. Woodward won the Belmont Stakes 5 times in 10 years. August Belmont bred Fair Play, Man o'War, Mad Hatter, Tracery and Friar Rock.

Mr. Chenery Repeats

Before the Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park on Saturday, June 22nd two fillies occupied adjoining saddling stalls. One was the odds on favorite Bayou, bred and owned by A. B. Hancock's Claiborne Stud, Paris, Ky. The other was the rank outsider Williamette bred and owned by Christopher T. Chenery of The Meadow, Doswell, Va. The latter's interest in the race was not limited to his own filly, however, for Bayou is by Mr. Chenery's home-bred Hill Prince who stands at Claiborne. Consequently he leaned across the partition and said to Mr. Han-

Lester Piggott. Starting at 100-8 and carrying the distinguishing white cap, she was by far the less fancied of Her Majesty's two runners, of which Mulberry Harbour, bred at The Queen's own Sandringham Stud, was a heavily backed second favorite. Carrozza is owned by the English National Stud and is leased to The Queen for her racing career. She is by the now-dead Dante out of Calash, and own-sister to the famous mare Sun Chariot, who won three war-time Classics for the Queen's father, the late King George VI.

With their successes Sir Victor Sassoon and The Queen now head the list of owners and Murless is way out ahead of the trainers with good prospects of setting up a new post-war record of earnings. Britain's most valuable race, the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes, is due for contention on July 20th and then in September comes the last of the Classics, the St. Leger. And we are hoping that we shall keep these two races at home and if Crepello keeps fit and sound, it looks as if we shall.

Amoret, appeared a pretty solid thing for the New Castle and lived up to expectations.

The Princess followed the early pace set by Gay Warbler, moved into the lead coming around the curve and was two lengths in front at the eighth pole.

Attica, far back early, came well through the late stages and made a race of it in the last sixteenth. Princess Turia was tiring, but Hartack had her a nose in front of Attica at the wire.

Nasrina got third money and Manotick took fourth prize.

The race was worth $28,650.

The New Castle is an allowance race, with penalties for big-race winners and weight off for lack of success. Amoret was top-weighted at 126; Princess Turia lugged 116. Other weights varied down to the 103 carried by Jane Gess, the only three-year-old in the field of 13.

Monmouth Park

For six straight races, B. A. Dario's Venomous has been poison to the fleet Thoroughbreds she has met. She had not tasted defeat since Decathlon ran her into the ground at Rockingham last August.

In Monmouth's Regret, however, A. J. Della-Pietra's Miss Erlen extracted the fangs of the swift striker. (That's a metaphorical way of saying that Miss Erlen hung it on her).

Galloping off in front, Miss Erlen raced like she thought the distance was six furlongs, and if that's what she thought, she was thinking right. At the stretch call, she was three on top and had enough she was three on top and had enough left to stave off the even money choice, Miss Erlen carried 114 pounds, ten less than Venomous.

Sammy Boulmetis, who always does well in New Jersey, was astride Miss Erlen.

*Heliopolis-Blue Delight, by Blue Larkspur, was racking up her third 1957 victory. She has 2 thirds, and her earnings, with the New Castle purse, add up to $36,250. Last year she won 8 of 19 and $95,900.

Calumet bred her and Jimmy Jones trains.

Earlier in the afternoon of the New Castle, Delaware Park put on one for the babies, the Dover Stakes, at 5 1/2 furlongs. Kirksdat's Bolero U. won it at odds of 7 to 10, but this race also was a near thing.

Bolero U. held first place over A Dragon Killer by a neck. Hubcap and Ambitwixt were the other money horses.

Bolero U. won the Youthful, at Jamaica and the Gulfstream Park Juvenile racing for the late J. L. McKnight, and has a total of 5 triumphs, 2 seconds and 1 third in 9 tries.

His earnings add up to $41,475. He collected $10,025 in the Dover.

W. R. Mitchell trains the son of Bolero (from Big Lu, by Challedon) and Bill Hartack rode the two-year-old colt.

Clarence Hartwick bred Bolero U.

Song, out of *Mint Julep II, by *Donatello II, rewarded backers with $41.60 mutual.

Jimminetty finished third, and Ephemeral II was fourth.

Miss Erlen has raced 11 times this year and has won 5 races, but this was her first stakes victory. The Regret prize amounted to $14,927.50, which makes her '57 total $28,427, plus half a buck.

She won 7 races and $17,440 in 1956. Miss Erlen's owner trains her. Crown Crest Farm bred her.

Short Takes of Late Stakes

Nahodah hung up a new track record of 1:34 3/5 when taking the Salvator Mile at Monmouth on June 19.

Sea O Erin scored in the Myrtlewood Handicap at Arlington Park, June 22. Romanita registered in the Cleopatra Handicap at the Arlington Heights track on June 17.

Round Table took El Dorado Handicap at Hollywood (June 15). The Hollywood Oaks, June 18, went to Market Basket. The Nursery Stakes at Hollywood, June 20, was taken by Sally Lee.

Akbar Khan was home first in Suffolk's

Macomber Memorial Handicap, June 17, setting a new grass-course mark of 2:30 3/5 for 1 1/2 miles. Golden Sun clicked in the Governor's Handicap at the East Boston course on the 22nd.

Manteau, a son of Citation, won the Ohio Derby at ThistleDown, June 22.

STEWARDS POOL

Keene Daingerfield, president of the National Association of State Racing Officials, recently announced that his group was in accord with the plan of William S. Miller, Illinois State Racing Commissioner, for a national pool of officials to be administered by a standing committee of the NASRC which would assume responsibility to undertake the necessary leadership to improve the level of officiating and at the same time provide the officials with more independence and job security. Of necessity, participation in the scheme would have to be voluntary by states. Mr. Miller also believes that schools for officials, similar to the Marshall Cassidy School in the east, should be established in the middle west and on the Pacific Coast.

cock "Bull, wouldn't it be just too bad if I beat you". "It certainly would" replied the Master of Claiborne, "particularly since the announcement of the increase of Hill Prince's stud fee to $5,000 will be out to-day."

Some 15 minutes later, when Willamette nosed out Bayou at the finish, paying her scattered backers $49.30, it is doubtful whether Mr. Chenery felt too badly about the outcome, however. For this winner was not only a long shot in racing, but in breeding as well. Her dam, Sister Union by *Blenheim II was a cast-off from the Maine Chance Farm of Mrs. Elizabeth Graham. Her sire Doswell, by Bull Lea out of Highclere, was a high priced yearling purchased at the Saratoga Sales by Mr. Chenery, whose racing career never materialized because of a bad knee. He has had only two other horses to race - North End, which has won allowance races and been placed in stakes, and Alida, which has won claiming races. This is not the first time that Mr. Chenery has produced a champion from breeding stock of modest credentials - his great mare Hildene, dam of Hill Prince and three other stakes winners - won only $300 during her racing career. That he should have repeated the process so emphatically, however, is something to confound the pedigree pundits. A. M-S.

PROMISING HORSE BOUGHT FOR IRISH ARMY JUMPING TEAM

Miss Jackie Macnaughton, Roebuck Mount, Dundrum, Dublin, has sold her promising jumper, Artetta Granard, to the Army School of Equitation. A five-year-old bay gelding, 16 hands, by Turbulent out of a mare by Opponent, she bought him last year, just ridden, from Mr. John Burns, Granard, Co. Longford. She hunted him last season with the Ward Union Stagbonds & the Meath Foxhounds. Last March she rode him in his first hunter trials (Ballymacad Hunt), and completed a testing course without a mistake, but was penalised for time. She won the trials on another of her horses, Blossom.

Miss Macnaughton, who owns Artetta Riding School, has just accepted a tempting offer to go to Canada. Mr. Duncan Stewart of Montreal, who hunts a good deal in Canada, has invited her to go for six months, to give riding instruction to his two daughters aged 17 and 23. She will fly over on July 10. S. ## Chronicle Cover

The wood carving on our cover is the center piece of a triptych showing a scene from the legend of St. Eligius, patron saint of farriers. Disguised as a farrier, Christ cuts off, trims and shoes the foot of a horse, which he thereafter replaces. This miracle led to the conversion of Eligius. The carving was executed toward the end of the 15th century, probably in Switzerland.

RODS AND FURLONGS

The word furlong was created by the English at about 100 A. D. It was at first used to approximate the distance which an ox team could plow a furrow without stopping to take a breather. This distance was latterly set by common acceptance at 220 yards, or 660 feet, or a furlong. This furlong was also accepted as one-eighth of a mile.

The rod was derived from the length of the goad stick which was used to drive the oxen, and latterly standardized at 5 1/2 yards, or 16 1/2 feet in length.

For square measure, an acre was one furlong, or 40 rods, or 660 feet in length, and 4 rods, or 66 feet in width, making the acre an area of 43,560 square feet. So when our Anglo-Saxon finished his land measures he had: 1 rod, 16 1/2 feet; 1 furlong, 40 rods, or 660 feet; 1 mile, 8 furlongs, or 320 rods, or 5,280 feet; 1 acre, 160 square rods, or 43,560 square feet. ### TOUR OF VIRGINIA YEARLINGS

The Virginia Thoroughbred Association and the Fasig-Tipton Co. Inc., organized a tour of Virginia farms on June 22 and 23 so that yearlings to be offered at the 37th Annual Saratoga Sales could be viewed. First on Saturday's itinerary was James L. Next a trip to the Gilpin's Kentmere Farm followed by a visit to Mrs. George Harrison's Blue Ridge Farm with cocktails afterwards. On Sunday morning, June 23, the Melville Church II's North Cliff Farm was the gathering spot for not only the Church's yearlings, but for those of Dr. & Mrs. F. A.
